1935 CONVENTION

Police Will Come to Kingston Next Year; Peter Keresman President of Conference.

(Special to The Kingston Daily Freeman)

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 4.—When the ninth annual convention of the state police conference came to a close today, Kingston had captured the chief honors. The famous police organization, representing 84 cities, towns and counties, voted unanimously to hold their tenth annual convention at the magnificent new Municipal Auditorium on Broadway. This action was taken as a tribute to the new president of the state police conference in the person of Peter Keresman, of 156 East Chester street, and president of the Kingston Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

The state police conference acted upon an invitation from Mayor C. J. Heiseleman to the conference. The letter from the Kingston city executive was supported by requests from the business leaders of the Colonial city on the Hudson.

Invitations Sent

They included Judge Bernard A. Culliton, president of the convention committee; William J. O'Reilly, president of the Central Business Organization; Harry Kaplan, president of the Downtown Business Organization; and Morris Kaplan, president of the Uptown Business Organization. It was stated at the convention session today that the action in selecting Kingston as the scene of the tenth annual gathering gives the police leaders of the state the honor of being the first to select the Kingston Municipal Auditorium as a 1935 convention headquarters.

The ninth annual state police conference brought together big leaders of the rank and file of the police departments of the state. In addition to the post of president, there was a unanimous demand that Mr. Keresman should continue his work as secretary. A separate unanimous vote was given by the 300 or more delegates to Mr. Keresman for each office.

William J. Reardon, treasurer of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, was the associate delegate of Mr. Keresman to the state conference which represents more than 50,000 policemen throughout New York state.

Reward For Efforts

Mr. Keresman was chosen for the post of president as a reward for the untiring labors of the Kingston police leader during the past year. As head of the Kingston organization for the last nine years and as secretary for the state police conference, Mr. Keresman won attention by many important activities during the last year. He enlisted the support of Senator Arthur Wicks for the eight hour bill for police officers which was passed in both branches of the legislature and which is due to be presented for action next year. The convention also commended Senator Wicks of Kingston, Assemblyman William Condon of Westchester, the majority and minority leaders of both houses, for their friendly interest in the blue coated guardians all over the state.

The state police conference was opened on Wednesday and came to a close today. The various sessions were featured by good news, due in a measure to the untiring labors of Mr. Keresman. The conference now represents 84 cities, counties and towns of the state. Announcement was made that sixteen more communities, through police organizations, had made requests to affiliate with the state body. The requests are due for approval.

Congratulations

Mr. Keresman received many congratulations today following his election. Discussing the unanimous selection of the new president, a joint statement was made by President Joseph P. Moran, of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of New York city and the founder of the state conference and Thomas G. Ferrara, president of the John E. Gordon Association of the city of Ellicott and one of the foremost leaders in police affairs in central New York. "We feel that all the state, as well as Kingston, should feel a deep sense of satisfaction in the selection of Mr. Peter Keresman as president of the State Police Conference. He has shown many qualities of leadership and this was emphasized by his unanimous selection by the delegates today."

"We recall with satisfaction that Mr. Keresman," continued Presidents Moran and Ferrara, "has been the president of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association for the last nine years. We also know of his fine civic work and his community outlook as reflected by his service as founder and president of the City Bowline Association as past vice-commander of Kingston Post No. 159, of the American Legion, treasurer of the City-First Pioneer Infantry Association, as well as his activity among the Elks, Knights of Columbus, the Central Y. ## Daughter Born To The Jack Dempseys

Ex-Heavy Champ Gladly Hears "It's a Girl." Although He Wanted a Son—Hoped to Match Him With "Tunney's Kid."

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Mrs. Jack Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, stage singer, today became the mother of a 7½ pound daughter.

The baby was born at Polyclinic Hospital and the mother and child were reported to be doing well. The baby's father is the former heavyweight champion of the world.

Dempsey paced the hospital corridors during the long early morning hours. "I sure hope it's a boy," he said. "I want to match him with Gene Tunney's kid as soon as they're big enough."

"It's a girl," the nurse announced and Dempsey forgot about the match. He seemed just as pleased.

Friends said that Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey agreed—in the event their first child was a girl—it would be named Jacqueline, instead of Jack Dempsey, Jr.

Miss Williams and Dempsey were married in Elko, Nev., July 18, 1923. Dempsey and Estelle Taylor, screen actress, were divorced in 1921. Miss Williams' first husband was Roger Wolfe Kahn, orchestra leader and son of the late Otto Kahn, banker. They were divorced in Reno a few months prior to her marriage to Dempsey.

of his fine service to the community in all the R-1 Cross, hospital and other civic movements. This service to Kingston as well as his able efforts as secretary, led the State Police Conference to turn to Mr. Keresman as the unanimous choice of president for the coming year. It is also a matter of satisfaction to all of us that Kingston, as the hometown of the new president, will be the scene of our 1935 annual conference.

Resolutions. The State Police Conference adopted resolutions today thanking the President and Congress for action against firearms and urging stronger laws against gangsters and criminals found with dangerous weapons in their possession.

Hitler Has Confidence of The New Germany Says Special Envoy Von Papen

Leader of Conservative Germany Expresses Belief That Adolf Hitler Will Be Trustee of Von Hindenburg Tradition.

REICH TO MEET

Reichstag Will Meet on Monday to Hear Chancellor Hitler Pro-nounce Political Policies.

Neudeck, Germany, Aug. 4 (AP).—Confidence in Adolf Hitler as "the leader of new Germany" was expressed today by Franz Von Papen, until recently vice chancellor and a critic of extreme Nazism, after a visit to the death bed of President Paul Von Hindenburg.

Von Papen said Hitler would serve as "a trustee of President Von Hindenburg's noblest tradition and history who will continue the work to which the life of the sainted dead marshal was devoted."

The statement was regarded as reassuring to Nazis, since Von Papen has been considered a leader of conservative Germany. He was named special envoy to Austria by Hitler last week.

But a note of apprehension was sounded as Germany, irrespective of religion and race, mourned her beloved president.

Gottfried Adolf, Cardinal Rerum in a message at Breslau ordering church bells rung in tribute to the dead president said:

"In this exceedingly grave hour our prayers that gracious God may grant our people and our Fatherland days of happiness and inner and outer peace are more earnest than ever."

Burial Under-ided. Germany was undecided today where the dead president would be buried. It was first announced he would be placed in the national memorial at Tannenberg, scene of the Great victory over Russia in the World War. A national funeral will be held there Tuesday.

But members of the family have indicated he would be buried in the family plot here, in accordance with a wish the president once expressed. Berlin heard rumors that inability to find Von Hindenburg's will was responsible for the uncertainty.

The body may be brought back to Neudeck after the services at Tannenberg, where Adolf Hitler will eulogize his predecessor.

All church bells—Catholic as well as Protestant—are being tolled throughout Germany for an hour each evening until the day of the funeral.

The first Jewish newspaper to appear since the president's death, Jüdische Rundschau, paid tribute to Von Hindenburg as one "who always saw the Fatherland as including all."

Memorial Service. Berlin, Aug. 4 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, seeking to consolidate his position, summoned the all-Nazi reichstag to assemble Monday for a memorial service to the late President Paul Von Hindenburg.

Chancellor Hitler's address, a chancellor's spokesman intimated, will be of a political nature, with a direct eulogy of Von Hindenburg reserved for the funeral services Tuesday at Tannenberg.

Because of the unusual circumstances of his coup d'état, whereby he merged the offices of president and chancellor, Hitler was believed to be intending to seize the occasion to justify his assumption of the powers of a monarch.

From the Reichstag rostrum Der Fuehrer is expected to utilize what may be his best opportunity to justify to a guarded way to the German people and the world his precipitate action of Thursday, immediately after Von Hindenburg's death.

Plea to America. Hitler is understood to be especially desirous of having America understand his motive and plan. The speech is anticipated as a political document of unique importance, revealing the course of Hitler's future leadership.

In designating August 13 as the date of a plebiscite in which he hopes to gain the approval of the German nation for his acquisition of new power, Hitler has sharply limited his opportunities for effective pleas for votes.

The period of national mourning for the late president will extend to August 14. In the interests of good taste, it was pointed out, Hitler cannot campaign too obviously for public favor, making it necessary to seek indirect methods.

Treasury Receipts. Washington, August 4 (AP).—The position of the treasury August 2 was: Receipts, $12,765,215.26; expenditures, $42,362,814.97; balance, $2,436,759,955.31. Customs receipts for the month, $1,128,828.10. Receipts for the fiscal year, $223,014,690.47; expenditures, $506,683,426.90 (including $247,052,450.09 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $288,688,735.53. Gold assets, $7,835,527,422.12.

Peddler Pays $15 Fine. Hyman Albert of 12 German street, Kingston, a peddler, paid $15 fine in preference to spending 15 days in the county jail, when arraigned before Justice Walter Webb Friday. Albert was charged with petit larceny.

Republicans Choose Goodwin, Wicks, Conway, Boice As Party Candidates

Carry Republican Standards

Former Officeholders Will Stand On Records Seeking to be Re-elected

Goodwin, Wicks and Conway Stand Squarely on Records in Office and Seek to Represent People Again.

BOICE CHOSEN

Pratt Boice Chosen as Man Fitted by Experience to Run for County Treasurer.

Confidence in the records of Republican office holders was expressed by the action of the Republican County Convention today which selected Philip Goodwin, county date to succeed himself as Congressman; Senator Arthur H. Wicks to run again; and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway to carry the standard for that office once more. The convention was called this morning at 11 o'clock in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, with County Chairman Philip Elting calling the meeting to order. When the roll was called no contests developed among the delegates.

In opening the convention Mr. Elting said he had invited Supervisor Roscoe Elsworth, minority leader of the board of supervisors, to address the convention on county government. Mr. Elsworth spoke of the accomplishments during the time that the county was under Republican control. It had assumed control from the Democratic party about 1906 when it found the county staggering under a load of bonded indebtedness. Down through the years under Republican administration this debt had been reduced and in 1933 the county was finally free of bonded indebtedness for the first time in its history.

Lauds Republicans. During the years that the Republicans had had control of the board of supervisors many notable accomplishments had been recorded, including the building of the fine new TB Hospital and many miles of improved county roads. Under the Republican control the county had progressed far, but last year for some unknown reason the county had turned control over to the Democratic party of the board of supervisors, who held it by a majority of one vote, the speaker stated. Supervisor Elsworth referred to these 17 Democratic supervisors as "trained seals who jumped at the crack of the master's whip. He spoke briefly on the ousting of Frank Ten Eyck as county sealer of weights and measures, and that the action taken by the Democratic members had been reversed by the courts and that three weeks ago the Democrats were forced to vote to reinstate Mr. Ten Eyck. That had been a bitter pill for the Democrats to swallow," he said. He also touched on the ousting of County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran, and in closing paid a tribute to the leadership of Mr. Elting as county chairman.

A Strong Ticket. Attorney Harry H. Flemming presented the name of Philip Goodwin to succeed himself as congressman. Mr. Flemming spoke briefly of the ability Mr. Goodwin had displayed as the representative from this congressional district. He was the unanimous choice of the convention.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks was unanimously chosen to succeed himself. His name was placed in nomination before the convention by Mayor C. J. Heiseleman.

J. Edward Conway was unanimously chosen to succeed himself as candidate for Member of Assembly. He was placed in nomination by former Senator Charles Walton.

Pratt Boice, supervisor of the town of Ulster and prominent dairy farmer, was the unanimous choice of the convention for the office of county treasurer. Former Assemblyman Millard Davis placed the name of Mr. Boice in nomination.

There were several candidates seeking to run as coroner and up to the time The Freeman went to press no decision had been made.

Short-Circuit In Iron. As a result of a short-circuit in an electric iron which Miss Geraldine Moore was using in a third floor apartment of the Terminal Hotel building at 88 Crown street, Friday afternoon, the Wilkewick women were called only to find that no damage had been done except to Miss Moore's nerves, and that apparently was not serious. Through some mix-up in the call the firemen were first sent to the corner of Wall and Pearl streets.

Shopping Tour Led Them To Court Here

Three Young Women Arrested on Charges of Shoplifting in Uptown Business District on Friday Afternoon—All Three Pleading Guilty—Other Police Court Cases.

Friday afternoon three women drove into Kingston to do some shopping and what followed the shopping tour led one of the women to tell the police "We must have been crazy" for instead of paying for the merchandise they shopped for they neglected to do so, which fact led to their arrest on charges of shoplifting. The women, who were not residents of Kingston, gave their names as Elizabeth Myers, Bertha Whitaker and Helen Siskler.

They were taken to police headquarters where it was found they had with them men and women's shoes, bathing suits, dresses, hosiery and a number of smaller articles.

This morning some of the merchants were in police headquarters where they identified the articles taken from their stores. The women, who appeared to have money, paid for the articles they had shoplifted. They also paid $10 fine in police court when arraigned before Judge Culliton.

Questioned as to why they had committed the acts charged they said they guess they must have been plain foolish, and that it was the first time they had ever done such a thing.

Ernest Dunham of 126 North Front street, arrested by his wife, who charged him with assault in the third degree, had his hearing adjourned to August 7.

Michael Raligan of Haines Falls and George F. Lezzert of New York city, arrested for public intoxication at the bus terminal, each paid $5 fine.

Larry White of 11 Ardley street, arrested on a warrant sworn out by five Annis S. Pratt was to be committed on a charge of non-support, veiled by ambulance nearly 200 miles today to a Staten Island hospital to recuperate.

Alleged Stabbing Affray Is Settled

Affair Is Brought To Conclusion When James Young of Allgerville Pays $15 Fine on Disorderly Conduct Charge.

The alleged stabbing affray at the Damside Rest on the South Boulevard, during the weekly dance Wednesday evening, turns out after considerable investigation to have been a much less tragic affair than was at first reported.

The affair was brought to a conclusion before Justice Roger H. Loughran Friday afternoon when James Young of Allgerville, who had been arrested by Sergeant Cunningham, was arraigned on a disorderly conduct charge and was fined $15, which he paid.

The original warrants, charging James Young, his brother, George, and the latter's wife with assault, had been withdrawn. The disorderly conduct charge against James Young was preferred by Al Bruckner, proprietor of Damside Rest.

The assault warrants were issued after Arthur MacDonald, of High Falls appeared at the sheriff's office early Thursday morning, after being treated at the hospital and claimed that he had been stabbed in the back during a rioting at the dance late Wednesday night. MacDonald claimed that while he was dancing George Young came up and knocked him down and then James Young and George Young's wife piled into him and that someone stabbed him in the back. The investigation showed that apparently MacDonald had been cut in the back by a piece of glass when during the melee he was thrown against a window.

Is Recovering. Westport, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—R. S. Johnson will celebrate his fifty-second birthday tomorrow with the country wondering—as does he—about his future and what it means for NRA. The best guess just now is that he will stay awhile as NRA administrator.

HOW FAR LIBERTY?

The report of the National Civil Liberties Union, which seems to be the only one of its kind, is a study of the rights and liberties of the people. It is a study of the rights and liberties of the people. It is a study of the rights and liberties of the people.

Then the report turns around and says we are still keeping out political refugees from lands of persecution, and labor hasn't got what it was promised under NRA. Which makes liberal enthusiasts feel not so good, and makes extreme conservatives feel better to themselves.

"It is obvious," concludes the report, "that in those fields where economic rights of power and privilege do not involve the policies, the New Deal makes for a larger exercise of civil liberties. But when those policies affect the profits and power of the ruling economic class, it is timid or ineffective. Despite the unparalleled power of the federal government, effective control over the exercise of civil liberties in the United States rests where it has always been—with the masters of property."

Norman Davis, American ambassador-in-general, who recently left Europe to shift for himself and came home for the summer, is reassuring on the war question. He doesn't believe there is going to be any war for a long time. He doesn't believe the nations are so far apart that they are not sure at each other, as they have been in former critical times.

SHRINE TO ECONOMY

It is said that the former home of Calvin Coolidge at 21 Massacott street in Northampton is of more interest to tourists than the estate he bought after his retirement from the Presidency. The latter, known as The Beeches, is a large, single house with fine lawns, gardens, and trees about it. The former is one side of a plain, two-family house, on the other side of a street.

There is talk of having the Massacott street house and maintaining it as a shrine for posterity. The idea may appeal to many persons. To others it will seem a mistaken plan. The Coolidge shrineplace in Vermont would be better for that purpose.

That Body of Yours

BY
James W. Barton, M. D.

Remembered in reference with the following facts:

WATER IS NEEDED.

One of the ailments that carried off so many young children in previous years is summer diarrhea. Fortunately, physicians are using special diets to help them to eat down the loss of life to a small fraction of what it formerly was.

However, the loss of so much water by youngsters with diarrhea is a serious matter and physicians are now working on methods to overcome the harmful effects on the body caused by this loss.

A recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association states: "When persistent diarrhea or vomiting is encountered for any reason, it is no longer merely the loss of water that demands attention. The fluids of the body are salt solutions in which certain mineral substances are evenly balanced. Loss of water is usually accompanied with loss of these mineral substances with a disturbance of the body's proper balance in the blood. The outcome of basic elements tend to leave the body in considerable measure in the stools, and as the urine is also scanty the acid elements are left in the body—thus causing acidosis."

In severe cases in order to get quick results in overcoming this acid condition due to loss of water, injections of dextrose or sugar solutions are made into the veins and injections of a salt solution into the skin. The injection of dextrose into the veins and the salt solution under the skin furnish fluids and enable the kidneys to get rid of waste properly.

However in ordinary attacks of diarrhea all that is required is attention to diet and encouragement of drinking more water. If persistent vomiting prevents the drinking of water then water can be obtained by blowing up into the lower part of the bowel as is done when an enema is given.

In the meantime every effort should be made to prevent loss of water from the body such as the sweat, by keeping the body as cool and quiet as possible.

However this prevention of the loss of water and having the patient drink water or have water put into him is not the cure for the diarrhea or other ailment causing the loss of water.

Baroness, advocates may get some results, but you will see eye to eye with the boss.

Wife—The poor worm will turn you about.
Her Husband—Yes! But like as not it will forget to put out its hand and get smashed by the speeder coming behind it.

Correct this sentence. "Yes," said the man to the salesman, "you offer as much as my old car is worth."

Sergeant (starting over the top)—Cmon men! You can't live forever! Doughboy—Okay, Sarge! Here's where my wife becomes the sole owner of a struggling garage business in Bruchville, U. S. A.!

It's nice to have two cars—a cheap one and a fine one. You can use the cheap one to pull the fine one off when it won't start.

A filling station friend of ours was complaining at the very small amount of traffic there is on the road nowadays, and he about expressed it when he said: "Nobody ain't goin' nowhere no more."

Man—So the president expelled you from college. How did you take it?
Ex-Student—I congratulated him on turning out such a fine young man.

One way for a property owner or tenant to show he is a good citizen is to sweep up the broken glass that from time to time finds its way into the street or out on the roadway. Parents also have a duty in curing children of the habit of working their way through a tire once they become imbedded in the tread.

Kate—What's wrong with that?

Jerry—Well, he met her at a masquerade dance.

A Small Boy's School Outfit for Early Fall

Little boy's clothes are often a heartbreaking business for mothers who cannot resign themselves to the masculine era that sets in after the romper stage has passed and before the age for orthodox suits begins.

Pictured in the sketch is a small boy attired in one of the new back-to-school outfits that has the approval of very strict style judges.

The trousers, as you see, are nothing more than shorts that have had the advantages of good tailoring. If it will make him happier explain this to him. The shirt is strictly a sports affair that follows the rule of—The Simpler The Better. It comes in all colors and can be had in many of the fabrics that are reminiscent fine-line shirtings. Plain dark and soft middle blues are smart, and so are many of the strong shades being used in men's shirts this Summer.

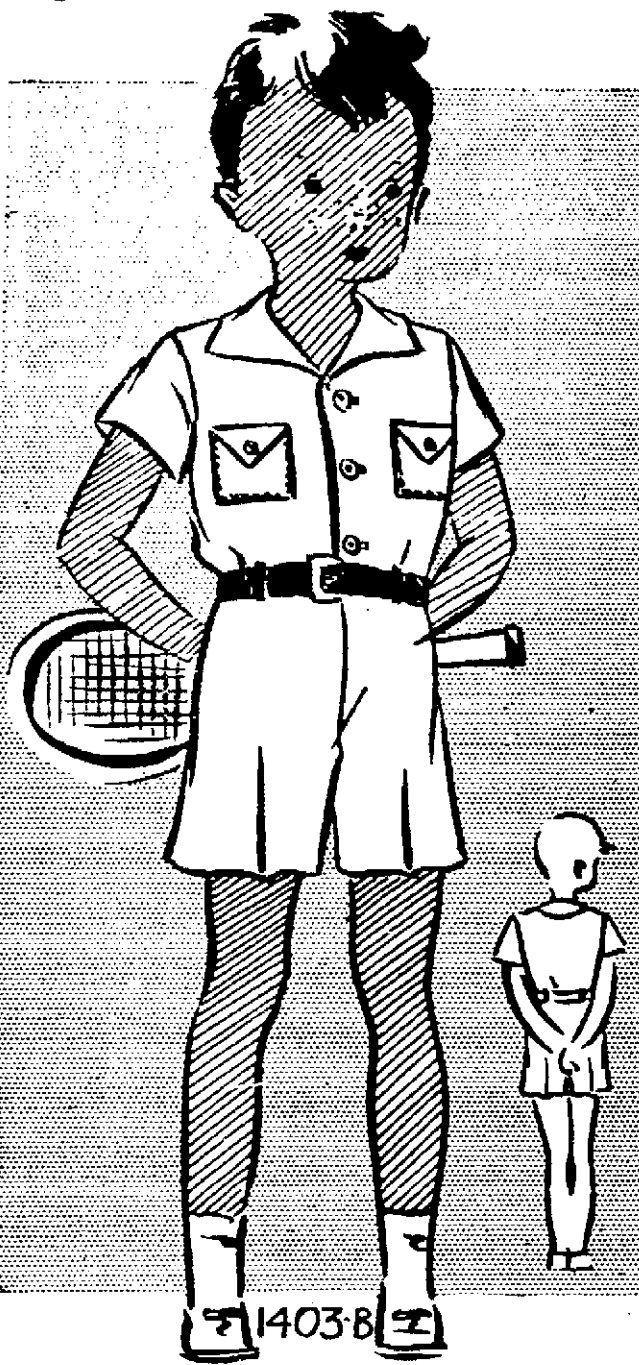

The trousers may be in a variety of different materials. They may be of tweed, but always remember that some tweed scratches; they may also be of flannel, either navy blue or grey. Serges and wool suitings are in high favor among the mothers of practical sons. The surface is hard and wears well over a long period of time. The preferred color is navy blue since its combining qualities rank high above those of the greys and the browns. In territories where the weather is still warm gabardine and drill are found to be cool and comfortable. The color that is usually selected is the neutral tones of the Boy Scouts uniform, or in white, if one is to spend the season in a warm climate.

FASHIONS BY BARBARA BELL

Going to College? Pack These for Campus Wear Plaids, Checks, Bright Colors Are Smart

A ring of shining metal acts as a terminal for the false tie, and the starting point of the belt on the dress of red wool, at the left top of the page.

This dress of novel crepe is innocent enough to look at, but it's full of surprises. The opening which you expect to find secluded beneath the tie effect in front isn't there at all. It's in the back, and involves the use of large pancake buttons to match the metal so conspicuously used as trimming. The front of the dress is very plain indeed, and performs the function of a back stage drop against which is silhouetted the amusing pantomime of the ring, the belt and the tie.

Moss green Canton crepe and accessories of warm henna velvet, of which the mittens are part, make the disarmingly chic outfit at the lower left of the page.

Colors and fine quality are the controlling factors in the frock of silk canton featuring Robin Hood's bow and arrow. The waistline and neck.

The dress says all it has to say in the fewest possible words—plain skirt, simple collar, slashed edges, and three-quarter sleeves. The accessories do the trick. The belt is wide, the hat jaunty and the mittens surprising, to say the least. This is the dress to wear to the class when an attractive date awaits you at the moment of release.

Scotch tartan brings strength to the chic of the thrifty model made in two pieces and worn by the student at the upper right.

Vivid reminders of the homeland of Mary Queen of Scots will be visibly present in the form of clan-plaid in practically all classrooms this fall. Besides covering the academic personnel for instructors the student is expected to find visual aid in differentiating one clan from another, too, etc. The model, pictured with the wing collar and how the comes in a feather-weight wool that is as Scotch as it can be. The collar and cuffs are of starched white pique that can be quickly removed for washing.

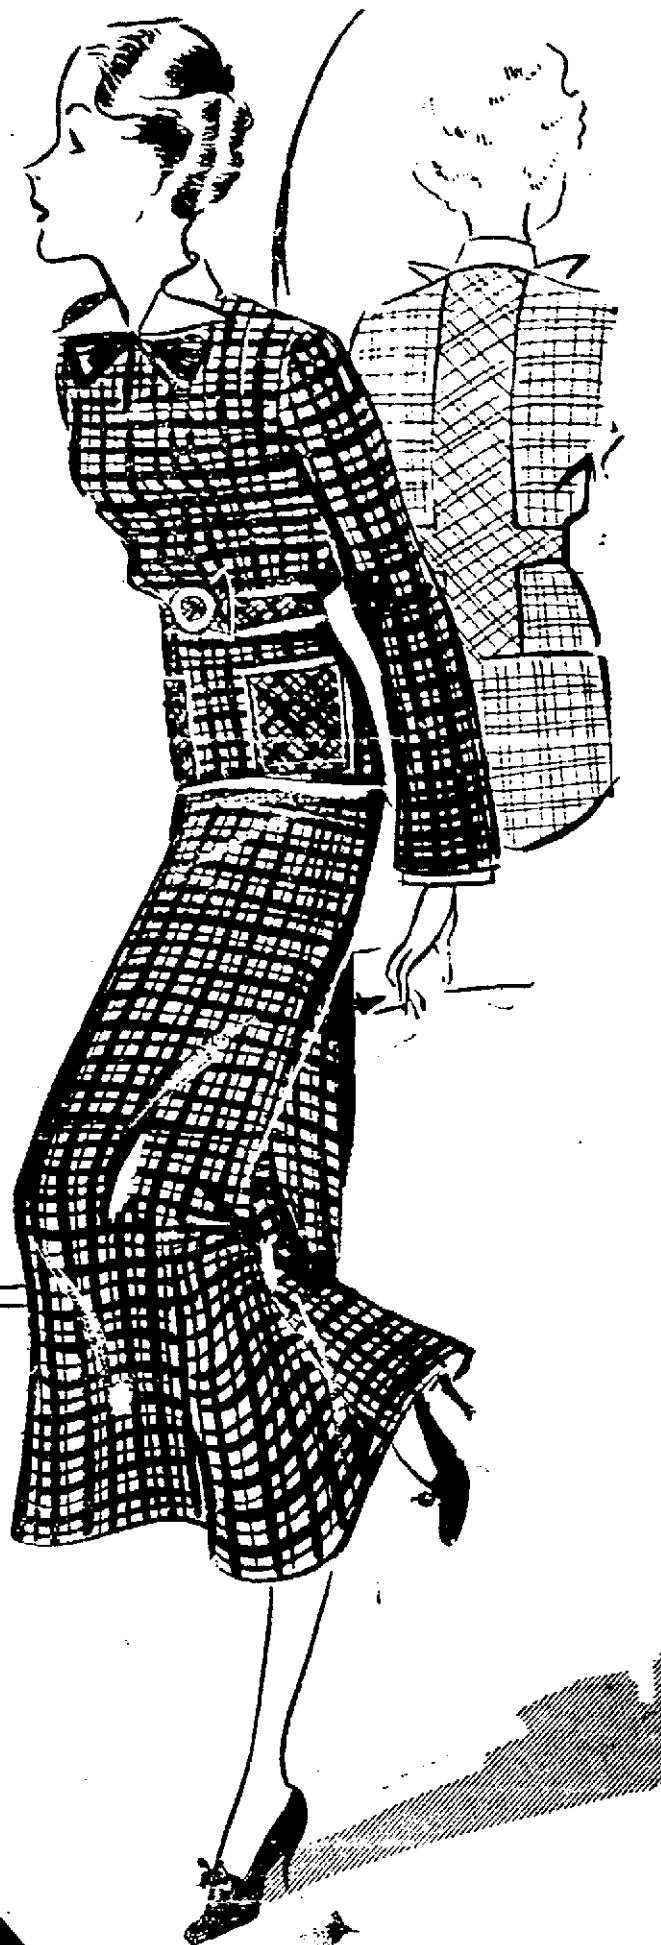

Pen nibs of gold are used as clips on the two piece class-room frock at the lower right of the page.

Not for a moment is the young person wearing the two-piece outfit on the lower left, to forget the seriousness of her calling. Pen-points of polished gold stand like sentries at attention, to banish thoughts that are frivolous, and if necessary use force to keep her grey matter on the dotted line. The model, as it is shown, is made in red flannel above, and black below. The gold of the clips contribute a touch of the military to the color scheme.

Metal not-took rings are used instead of clips on the royal blue frock at the lower center.

The stationery department has won distinction over the button counter in the case of the eight ring fastenings used to close the frock worn by the young lady who is seen pondering, in all probability, on some unfortunate problem in the differential Calculus. For a steady standby we can't recommend this dress too highly. Three capable pockets stand ready to back us up. One of them has a special compartment for a fountain pen, so at least the student knows where that is located.

Separate Items Combine To Make Chic Costumes

Sweaters, blouses, skirts and trousers have smart fall jackets are separate items of individual pattern for the blouse, are no longer significant cost which combine to make a complete costume. Substitute a jersey costume of unparalleled chic for fall use for the sweater underneath campus and classroom wear. A life-size cartoon match them exactly the ingenuity in selecting the composition of color, or invent your own color nent parts, and a small wardrobe scheme, such as red with black, blue will look many times its size, with with brown, or blue with cherry red, each combination smarter than the and you have added another winner to your wardrobe. If the blouse is

There is plenty of room about the waistline, and much the sweaters. Launched this season is better, button it in back, and the the peplum sweater, a perfect type for all things sporting, for the narrow waistline, which is doing row ribbing at the waistline keeps double duty.

Contrasting jackets bring up the subject of plaids again as important in connection with monotone skirts and sweaters. Woolens, velveteen

As one would expect, with the vogue for two-piece dresses at its height, the overblouse-sweater, belt-ed at the waistline, is much in their smartest medium. Crossbar picture. Worn with a matching plaid in monotonous woolen, the effect blue, or combinations of medium is most attractive and definitely new. Such late colors as fog blue or autumn brown are suggested.

A Class Room Frock Of Checked Woolen Plaid

Concise checks and bold woolen plaids will be the theme song of class rooms for Fall. Rich shades and animated patterns are advancing toward us, hand in hand, to help woe down the annual feeling of drabness that accompanies Back-to-School situation. The new Class Room clothes are the most fascinating ones ever seen. The two-piece model, illustrated in line-check, has as the focal point of interest, the buttoned front-closing, the very new peplum treatment, and collar and cuffs that follow the English fashion of plaid edgings. This dress carries news of a refreshing diversity of dress designs that have entered the wardrobe of the college girl. The introduction of the bias vestee section brings interest, without effort, to the front of the dress. The sleeves assure a reasonable amount of elbow room through the amplitude of their lower cut. The skirt is made in four gores, flared at the bottom—with no plaits to keep in press.

As to colors—blues are again conspicuous, bright ones of the Royal Family type. Brown is considered very good; it combines well with rose henna—a shade that refuses to be suppressed this fall. Red is highly regarded among the warm colors. Those who cannot wear it must try mulberry, and coral with a rose cast, or, as we have said before the very lovely rose henna. Black continues to be a favorite, but not alone. It must be linked up with bright patent leather belts in gay colors, or with metal that reflects passing colors. Novelty buttons, also, are a simple means of developing an individualistic color scheme that can be removed easily.

LEGION WILL HOLD MASS MEETING IN EVERY COMMUNITY

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 4.—In a statement being sent to the 11,000 posts of the American Legion, Edward A. Hayes, national commander, is announcing a nation-wide plan to awaken support for the constitution of the United States through the observance of Constitution Week, beginning September 17, he said today.

The program for the observance is being outlined by the Americanism Commission of the Legion, of which Russell Cook is director at National Headquarters here. It embraces a mass meeting and public speaking on September 17, Constitution Day, by Legion officials in every community large enough to have a Legion post. Director Cook said. This will be followed by addresses throughout the week in grade and high schools and before civic organizations.

Following the week of intensive observance, according to Director Cook, a Legion poster dedicated to the constitution will be placed on outdoor panels throughout the United States. The poster is described as showing "a massed formation of uniformed Legionnaires, marching out of the orange yellow of the dawn from a limitless horizon, the figures tense and expressions determined. In their vanguard is the figure of Columbia carrying in her hands the constitution of the United States."

In his statement to all Post Commanders, Mr. Hayes wrote in part: "Because of the continuous growth of insidious, un-American propaganda, which is undermining the confidence of the American people in the constitution and our form of government, all Posts are being called upon to formulate plans for a nation-wide patriotic observance on September 17 this year. The purpose of this demonstration is to stimulate a greater appreciation of our constitution and the rights, benefits and privileges guaranteed thereby."

"Every member of our organization, upon being accepted for membership, solemnly pledged himself to support the ten purposes set forth in the Legion preamble. The first of these ten purposes is 'to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States.'"

"Let us prove, by taking the lead in this observance, that there is no place in America for those who will not support and defend the constitution."

FLORIDA HOTHOUSE

Picking Florida Strawberries in January.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C. W. N. C. Service.

NEW national playground and game refuge comes into being with the passage by congress of an act setting aside an area of 2,500 square miles of the Florida Everglades as the Everglades National Park.

This romantic region is a retreat for many nearly extinct birds and a wide variety of animal life found nowhere else in America. Such creatures as the giant hispid crocodile, the white heron, the alligator, crocodile and manatee are all found there, yet they are being slowly exterminated.

Likewise in this amazing region there now exists a plant life of wild and superbly beautiful palms, orchids, bromeliads and fascinating climbing lianas. But, like the bird and animal life, these colorful glades and hummocks have been threatened with destruction from fires, often left by careless hunters and others. Now the protecting hand of the government is to be raised in time to save them.

Set apart, preserved, and made accessible as a national park, this area will be visited in time by millions—millions eager for sub-tropical adventure, but adventure under American skies, amid American customs, and the comforts and excellent direction extended to all by the governmental supervision of the national park service of the Department of Interior. The leading citizens of Florida and many residents of other states urged this important and needed project, which of course is for all the people of the nation.

Florida's map resembles no other state's. In all America there is no terrain so unusual, yet often so uniformly monotonous, as one sees enroute from Pensacola to Key West. From Jacksonville a small boat may cruise all the way down to the last big key, and even far out to the reefs on the way to Havana, broadly speaking, in sheltered waters.

Shore lines of keys and islands alone measure about 1,000 miles. Certainly, nature gave the map-makers a real job when she designed Florida. Today's map, evolved through generations of pucker-browed cartographers, differs much from one issued in France as late as 1750, showing high mountain peaks in the Everglades!

Exotic Plants Flourish

Lured by the sun-warmed, mysterious waters that swirl ceaselessly about it, and sweetened by the soft, pure trade winds that breathe life upon it, Florida is like a giant hothouse. It forms to the imaginative eye a big experimental farm for all America. From 51 foreign lands plants and trees strange to us have been brought here to take up a new home and many are already adapted to our use.

From Surinam to Singapore Uncle Sam's explorers have searched the nooks and crannies of the tropical world. As men in Bible times went forth in quest of camphor, incense and myrrh, so these dauntless botanists have hunted, found and brought to Florida various exotic plants and trees whose fruits we may use as food or medicine. At the home of one famous American botanist in Coconut Grove Dr. David Fairchild was served a vegetable lunch all picked from plants with odd names utterly unknown here two decades ago.

Here is the jackfruit of Ceylon; and the macadamia, a fine table nut from Australia; the chayote vine from the mountains of Guatemala, which bears the favorite vegetable of the Indians of that land; here is Livingstone's gacahia, a delicate maroon-colored fruit discovered in East Africa by the great missionary; here is the capote, or chewing-gum tree, from Yucatan, and the lychee, or favorite fruit of South China; here, also, are, of course, mangoes, papayas and avocados, and the chaya of Central America whose young shoots are as delicate as spinach.

In pioneering vegetable gardens one sees the popular taro and yautias, reminiscent of hillside taro patches in Hawaii; the manihot, chief food to millions of tropical peoples, who eat it as we do potatoes; great bushes of "pigeon peas" from the West Indies; the pea which, when ripe, forms an ingredient in that famous Bahama Islands dish, "hoppin' John."

Besides these, there is the famed mchopo or Zulu fig (Ficus utilis), from whose dark Congo women make their dresses; the candian tree from Polynesia and the lebbek tree from the avenue planted by the khedive in honor of the Empress Eugenie when she visited Egypt.

Here, also, is the Limono ponderosa, or giant lemon. One sees it thriving near Miami, but not as yet on a commercial basis. It is literally too big. A woman who had some growing in her garden told a visitor she "made it glasses of lemonade and three pies out of one lemon" and her statement after seeing the size of the fruit, is not to be doubted.

For the Convenience of Bugs.

Another strange plant is the Monstera deliciosa. It grows a queer, cucumber-shaped fruit. An interesting characteristic of this plant is the big holes in its leaves, like a lace pattern. One wit suggested that nature provided these holes so that bugs may pass from one side of the leaf to the other at their convenience. The big fruit has a spicy flavor suggestive of apples and bananas.

In his haste to clear land for the sites where new homes and towns now stand in south Florida, man of necessity destroyed much of the original growth of cabbage palms and the dense hummock jungles, with their many trees, stranglers, figs, and undergrowth of ferns. But for the botanists bringing in beautiful flowers, trees and shrubs from all over the tropical world, and the richness of the muck soil, these newly settled regions of Florida would be unsightly in their bare ugliness.

Instead, now painted against a background of green grasses many of which are also imported, and now against backgrounds of stucco houses and garden walls, one beholds the riotous brilliance of many-hued bougainvillea, named for a great French admiral; the Saharan oleander, the gorgeous flowering cassia from Siam, the flame tree of the Caribbean, the red-flowered hibiscus, the poinsettia, and a host of others. Here, too, is the sacred tree from India, the remarkable psychotria from the Comoro Islands, which carries bacterial nodules in its leaves instead of its roots.

From such exotic immigrants of the vegetable world many small plant oases are forming in Florida. About them there also gather many kinds of tropical insect pests, and tiny animals that feed on the plants. So here, to care for these imported plants and trees as well as the vegetable gardens and citrus orchards of Florida, an intensive science of tropical entomology is being fostered. This work against citrus canker and other pests is of measureless value to the whole nation.

Follow the equator around the world, and in many cities near it one may see botanical gardens, maintained as show places only. But there is no other region even approaching south Florida in size where tropical and sub-tropical plant life is cultivated on so vast a scale, with strict quarantine and funds for fighting parasites, experimenting with new varieties, and raising their culture to a commercial scale.

Resides the culture of new plants, there are costly private ventures in animal husbandry, reforestation, intensive farming, and group efforts at marketing methods. From that admirable institution, the Florida department of agriculture, at Tallahassee, there issues a steady stream of bulletins and periodicals on what and when to plant, how to raise it and sell it at a profit—and, just think, alleged humorists used to call native Floridians "crackers."

Tung Oil Industry Growing

For decades we have used "wood oil" brought from China and other foreign countries for use in our paint and varnish industry. In China, besides its use in soap-making and for waterproofing, settings of the burned oil make the "India ink" of commerce. It is surprising to know that we import the oil from the tung nut to the tune of $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 annually.

Now, as one approaches Gainesville and in the neighborhood of Green Cove Springs, Florida, long rows of tung or wood-oil trees may be seen flourishing here as in a similar latitude in China. They grow in the most unlikely looking ground and their oily proclivity repels insect life.

Some years ago American consuls in China, co-operating with our Department of Agriculture, introduced the seeds of this tree. True, this industry is only in its infancy. Yet it affords another example of Florida's value to the nation as an experimental plant laboratory that will one day not far distant stand out in the development of home industry.

Among exotic fruits that have found a foothold here is the avocado, often called "alligator pear." In old days South Sea sailors called it "midshipman's butter."

Years ago this fruit was first brought to Florida from Mexico. Since then other selected varieties have been imported. Teas of this healthy, valuable table delicacy are now shipped to northern and midwest markets from the Peninsular state.

The Adirondack Mountains

The Adirondack mountains themselves cover an area of more than 12,000 square miles, with extensive forest areas, including pine, spruce and hardwoods; numerous exquisite lakes, and hunting grounds.

Military forces sometimes face armaments which their own country has previously sold to the enemy. During the war, 120,000,000 of German patent fuses for hand grenades were used by the allies, the British fleet used German gunights and Germany bought British copper through Sweden. In 1913, a company in France and a British firm in Constantinople supplied Turkey with the bullets which later mowed down the British and Australian troops in the Dardanelles—Collier's Weekly.

"Sky Train" Starts On Return Trip Boy who Was "Dead" Is Very Much Alive

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The "sky train" which arrived here from New York yesterday, started on its return trip shortly after 10 o'clock a. m. It is the first of a series of three flights, planned to take the boys up to Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Jack O'Meara, pilot of the plane which landed south of the White House, was in the trailer as the single-engine biplane headed back north to pick up the others.

O'Meara termed the flight a perfect success including the practicability of utilizing the pulling power of an airplane motor for hauling loads over and above the plane's individual carrying capacity.

Manhattan, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—The boy who was "dead" for two days, was very much alive. The doctor who examined him said he was in good health. The boy was taken to the hospital and is now recovering from his injuries.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON
PRETTY SMALL

A VISITOR to the Mt. Wilson observatory in California was describing her experience in looking through the most powerful spyglass in the world.

She told of the thrill of looking upon the moon as if it were but five hundred miles from us; seeing a billion stars, though but six thousand are visible to the naked eye; observing a light that has been traveling at a speed of 166,000 miles a second for nearly a million years. The thrill of seeing a universe which revolves around the sun; of realizing that there are literally millions of such universes.

And she made the inevitable comment, "It makes you feel pretty small."

It reminded me of my experience last summer in the planetarium in Chicago. There one saw not the real phenomena of the heavens themselves, as through a powerful telescope, but merely a projection like a motion picture across a dome above one's head, of those travels of the earth which account for the phenomena of day and night and the change of seasons—the travels of the earth in its orbit.

And did that make me feel small? It made me feel, and all the problems and troubles that were vexing me, like something about a millionth the size of the tiniest ant, chasing back and forth with infinitesimal grains of matter to build something that a fly would destroy by stepping on it.

The great scientist, James Jeans, is said to have remarked that there are as many stars in the sky as there are grains of sand on all the beaches of the world. How then do we—our world—our universe—appear from any of those stars? Is our world even important enough to exist for them?

Such thoughts are a great help to women contemplating the idea of a nervous breakdown—on account of the things of every day.

ASK 2,000 "BABIES" TO GOLDEN WEDDING

Doctors Celebrate Anniversary in Unique Way.

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Daniel H. Kress and Dr. Lauretta Kress began to receive the guests for the reception to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Doctor Lauretta was 67 and Dr. Kress was 68.

"All my babies must be invited," she announced.

"What?" said Doctor Daniel. "The whole 3,571?"

"At least as many as I can find," replied the wife.

So it came about that invitations to the reception went to more than 2,000 persons whom Doctor Lauretta, an obstetrician, had ushered into this world during a career of forty years.

They accepted, 500 of them. One was Mrs. Cecil Ross of Bloomfield, N. J., the oldest of Doctor Lauretta's "babies." She is thirty-nine. The youngest couldn't come. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Fairchild of Washington, and the gray-haired doctor spanked the breath into him only the day before.

Through the spacious residence of the Doctors Kress pressed the throng. There were mature men and women, lanky youths, debutantes, little girls shedding their first teeth, smaller toddlers hanging to their mothers' skirts, and quite a number who hadn't yet learned to walk.

"I remember them all," said the doctor. "But, goodness, how some of them have changed since I first knew them. And wasn't it wonderful that the reception wasn't interrupted by a call to take care of another eligible for the guest list."

Dr. Daniel Kress, who is seventy-one, is a specialist in diseases of the stomach. He asserted that he and his wife, who is seventy, were never busier in their lives and intended to keep on practicing.

The couple had been married nearly ten years, and had two children of their own before they were graduated in medicine at the University of Michigan in 1894.

The Little Brown Schoolhouse

By ANNE CAMPBELL

AROUND these brown walls my attention dwelt.
Although they are standing no more,
In my memory lingers its simple design.

The windows, the thick, oaken door,
The little square pines have adorned the light
Of many a long day for me.
As I studied the "Three Rs" at home
every night,
The face of my teacher I'd see.

The desks were initiated with names that are rust
On many a tall granite shaft.
The blackboards have vanished where I used to put
Gay pictures while naughty boys laughed.

Remember the globe that revolved on the shelf?
The books that were penciled and worn?
The dunce with his tall cap, who stood by himself,
The victim of scholarly scorn?

We girls wore bright aprons of gingham and print.
And when we got home every night
Our mothers would say: "Now you must do your stint."
For our samplers were mother's delight.

The boys did the chores after school, and arose
With the first faint approach of the sun
To help in the barn. . . On their nimble bare toes
They scurried till all tasks were done.

The little brown schoolhouse! What memories rise
Of days that will not come again!
Of orchard and garden and clear sunny skies.
Broad meadows and green, winding lane.
The school bell will ring in September to call
Our children to lessons once more,
But never again will our own shadow fall
The length of the old schoolhouse floor.

"Y" Camp Closes Regular Season

Thursday, August 2 marked the close of the regular season at the "Y" camp. The camp will be in operation over the weekend and when the boys in the Junior League Club will be there for their outing.

Wednesday night was the last campfire program for the boys. A college program was the feature of the evening when a number of the camp leaders sang their favorite fraternal songs and told of the various phases of college life. Mr. Paul well, former co-captain at Cornell, a very interesting account of one's experiences with a college crew, the methods of training, etc. Other leaders told of football, basketball, and the songs of Cornell. Cornell, Albany State and St. Lawrence lived up the program.

Another feature of the campfire had been the method of training. The boys had marched to the camp by cabin groups and then the places in the ring when, in the Great Spirit. When the Great Spirit was asked to send fire to warm the hearts of men, a ball of fire mysteriously came from the sky (the top of a tree about 100 feet high) right into the wood prepared for the campfire and immediately there was a great blaze.

The following boys were also awarded emblems for certain achievements in camp: The first to Julian Ronder; the second, to V. Valkenburgh; the third, to E. Donnelly, Jack Schultz and Don McCausland. A few other boys who lack only one or two requirements for the "Y" camp are remaining for the week-end camp in order to complete their work.

Attribute Shooting To Policy Racket

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—A shooting which police attributed to a policy racket dispute sent two men to the hospital today, one with bullet wounds and the other with a battered head.

Police said the fight was about a "route" for the sale of policy tickets. They said Max Peskin, 45, objected to the usurpation of a route by Myles Gordon, 33, and that Peskin asked Gordon to come to his home in The Bronx to discuss the matter.

During the discussion, police said, the two started to fight and Peskin fired two shots at Gordon, wounding him twice. A negro who accompanied Gordon then beat up Peskin and fled before police arrived. Peskin was charged with felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law.

ONE REMAINS IN THE HOSPITAL AFTER MISHAP

Four of the injured Friday afternoon in a motor car crash at the junction of the Lake Katrine cross road and the main Kingston-Saugerties road were discharged from the Kingston Hospital after being treated for minor injuries. Mrs. Jennie Goetichius was the only one who remained. She was injured about the head.

The accident happened when a car driven by Albert George Carr, 17, of town of Saugerties came out from the Lake Katrine road on the main highway as the other car driven by Charles Lowe was passing north. They sideswiped and the Lowe car turned over in the ditch.

Mrs. Jennie Lowther, Mildred Goetichius, Jennie Goetichius and Loretta Lowe were taken to the Kingston Hospital in the W. N. Conner ambulance and all but Mrs. Goetichius were later discharged. Mr. Lowe was taken to the hospital later. Following the accident Trooper Arthur Reilly made an investigation and photographs and measurements were taken of the scene of the crash.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Aug. 4—Requests have been made for information as to where contributions may be taken for the library fair to be held on August 23, or if rainy, the next clear day. Mrs. Cushman Parker will receive all women's and children's clothing; Miss Alice Wardwell, men's clothing; Miss Gabrielle Monette, toys; Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, table decorations (which include dishes, linens, and bric-a-brac). Books and oddments will be received at the library. In case there is confusion as to just what is meant by "oddments," suffice it to say an oddment is anything that would not fit under the other headings. As a suggestion, jewelry, kitchen and this year even furniture. Other tables may be arranged later as well as music and entertainment. Any other information may be obtained at the library. If in doubt of addresses of headquarters for taking in contributions directions may be gotten at the Community Association or at the post office.

The Woodstock Library reports an increase in circulation for July over that of last year. Last year 1,637 books went out during that month; this year 1,817.

Black Widow Spiders Are New Menace in West

Sacramento, Calif.—Reports of extraordinarily large numbers of venomous black widow spiders have resulted in public health departments throughout the West issuing warnings to be on the alert.

Numerous cases of black widow spider bites have been reported and a few deaths have occurred. A mild winter and dry weather were conducive to development of the poisonous species.

The black widow, so named because the female of the species devours her mate, has a large, round, shiny black body resembling a shoe button. The long, sprawling legs may spread two inches.

The most distinguishing mark is a red spot, somewhat in the shape of an hour glass, on the under side of the body.

Poisons are not effective in exterminating the pest, but spraying crude oil, or creosote, into cracks and crevices is considered a helpful control procedure.

When a person is bitten by a black widow, acute pain develops almost immediately in the region of the bite and spreads to other parts of the body. Accompanying the pain there may be muscular contraction, difficult breathing, cold perspiration, nausea and an extreme rigidity of the abdomen.

Fatalities are not common, but when death does occur it usually comes swiftly—within 32 hours after the bite.

Michigan Naval Reserve Using Old Insull Boat

Detroit—Sturdy naval reserve men now hustle about the decks of the training ship, the Truant, once the yacht of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate.

The Truant was loaned to the Michigan Naval Reserve corps by the Illinois Naval militia which bought her from Insull ten years ago.

Insull had loaned it to the Illinois organization two years before the militia purchased it. The ship has the speedy lines that appeal to the sportsman, being 130 feet long, with a narrow beam of only 13 feet.

Sight Restored to 103

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—After 30 years of blindness George Owens, one hundred-and-three-year-old negro, is able to see again.

A cataract was removed from his right eye in an operation.

Storm Kills 500 Ducks

Ulysses, Kan.—More than 500 wild ducks were killed here recently by a dust storm. Earl Lytal and Jerry Sullivan found the fowls, which evidently had smothered in the thick dust that filled the air.

Mamma Coyote Knows How to Handle Young

Stevensville, Mont.—Anxious mothers can learn how to make children behave by watching a coyote on Carney Phelps' ranch.

Phelps said a mother coyote had five pups of belligerent nature. To keep them from fighting, she moved into an old badger hole with five tunnels leading from the main shaft.

By keeping one pup in each tunnel, "Ma" coyote kept them apart, except at meal times when she and "Pa" saw to it that peace was preserved.

ALL AGREE on ONE THING !

Different incomes, different interests—and they live in different worlds. Yet there is ONE thing all three of these Kingston women have in common. They all know how to live smartly, stylishly and well within their means. All three do their shopping in the Daily Freeman.

Cake baking may some day give way to country clubs and sewing circles to social secretaries. Bank accounts may grow and living habits change through the years. But there is ONE habit that none of these women will ever unlearn. It is that habit of thrifty buying—of shopping REGULARLY through the ads in the Daily Freeman.

$1,500 a year or $15,000 a year — smart living means smart budgeting either way. Washing machines or V-16's — the big thing is to get the most and best for your money and still have more money left over.

How to be stylish-though-thrifty is every woman's problem. It is a problem with as many different answers as there are incomes and the Daily Freeman ads give you all of them. The mere fact that this newspaper is read by nearly every shopper in town guarantees that you will get more for your money through the Daily Freeman ads whether your buying allowance is $500 a month or $500 a year.

For if the Daily Freeman reaches almost everybody, the merchant who advertises in it isn't getting his full money's worth unless his story is interesting to almost everybody. And the one and only thing that every shopper everywhere is interested in is Value. Granted that Value is something of a Peas-Porridge-Hot proposition. Granted that some women like it spelled P-R-I-C-E and others spell it Q-U-A-L-I-T-Y. That just means the Daily Freeman advertiser has to give plenty of both in his offerings. Since Quality plus a Reasonable Price MAKE Value, everybody is satisfied !

And speaking of satisfying everybody ! The Daily Freeman has been bringing more pleased customers to more merchants and a lower cost of better living to those pleased customers for years. If that isn't keeping all Kingston happy, what is?

WHETHER YOUR INCOME IS
$1,500 or $15,000

"Sky" Wins, Lou Hits 34th and 35th; s Whitewash Phillies By 2-0

WASH. (AP)—H. S. FULLERTON, JR., New York Press Sports Writer, returns at 11:30 and a couple of his men are at least threatened. His approach greatness received the status of big league today and the status of big league today and the status of big league today.

House were Lou Gehrig, off on a gig of home runs and ordinary. A. Lyndon (Schoolboy) Rowe, a new season's record for consecutive pitching victories, and Carl Hubbell, with 22 consecutive victories on the hill.

All three figured yesterday in victories for the Yankees, Tigers and Giants which left Detroit a game ahead of New York in the American League race and the Giants three games up on Chicago in the National League race.

Rowe pitched almost faultless ball for seven innings to win his 15th straight victory and his 15th of the season, surpassing the streak of Dizzy Dean made earlier this year. He gave Dean one hit. The Tigers won 14 to 0.

Hubbell, who blanked the Philadelphia Phillies, followed with four scoreless innings against Boston, turned in his second straight whitewash of Philadelphia, 2 to 0.

Lonnie Warneke of the Cubs was the third hurler of the day to turn in victory No. 15, getting credit for the Cubs' 5 to 4 triumph over Cincinnati.

Jerome (Dizzy) Dean of the Cardinals, leading big league hurler, recorded his 19th triumph against four defeats but did it less impressively as the Cards trounced Pittsburgh 3 to 0. He granted eleven batters.

Monte Pearson of Cleveland collected his 14th triumph as the Indians broke a three-game losing streak with a 6 to 4 decision over St. Louis. The Red Sox and Athletics in the American League and Braves and Dodgers had the day off.

Three runs by the Milkmen went across in the third after Lenahan and Messinger had walked, and Geisler and Clark singled. In the fifth, Stump singled, and scored on a fly by Thomas.

The combination team got their two in the last frame but the Milkmen stayed off the rally in time to save the game.

PORCHES WILL BE LIGHTED FOR EDDYVILLE CARNIVAL TONIGHT

All the householders of Eddyville and vicinity have been asked to light up their places tonight "to guide the traveler on his way" to the annual carnival on Cutler Hill.

The carnival lights—the number of which was increased 267 yesterday, can be seen for miles around. The band begins about nine. The laughable boys' pie eating contest is booked at 9:30.

The weather man promises a glorious week-end—"fair today and tomorrow."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ignoring world-wide strength of wheat markets, shares yielded readily to fluctuating in the New York Stock Exchange today, a few leaders recovering from 1934 lows. Losses of 1 to 4 points were common, and the closing was mixed. Sales approximated 100,000 shares for the two-hour session.

Union Pacific finally extended its loss to a little more than 3 points, closing below 51. Santa Fe and Pennsylvania also both reached new lows for 1934, with losses of more than a point. The rail outlook was regarded as obscured by the prospects of lowered crop movements, and higher operating costs. The move for higher freight rates, if successful, some observers have pointed out, might divert freight to trucks.

Several of the metals resisted the decline, although the silver issues were heavy. American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and U. S. Smelting, lost a point or two. Among the gold issues, Dome and McIntyre were up small fractions. American Sugar, Liggett and Myers B. and Allied Chemical dropped about 2 and issues of 1 to 2 included American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., Johns Manville, du Pont, American Can, Sears Roebuck, National Distillers and American Tobacco B.

England's Dew-Ponds Are Still Puzzle to Science

"The dew-ponds of England, relics of pre-historic man, remain today one of the few practical inventions of that era," says the Illustrated London News. The mystery of the dew-ponds still remains, and men are wondering today, as they wondered centuries ago, how and whence the water comes that fills those lonely hollows on the highest hills. On the bleakest ridges of the Sussex Downs, far from shade of tree or protecting copse, where no streams have ever flowed, where no marsh has ever been, there, on those arid uplands, is the dew-pond with the water that never fails.

Condensation of the moisture of the atmosphere it may be, cooling into drops that merge into the pond in the chill night air, and so counteracting the evaporation under the summer sun. Go when we will, at all seasons of the year, there is water for the cattle or the sheep that roam the green downlands.

The secret of the making of these ponds is known to but a few. The lime and flint to form the saucer-shaped bed, the layer of straw beneath the covering of clay, the final concrete surface, are all wrought with experience and craft that are a heritage from the past, and then left to dry.

When a Ship Is Born

Owners of a new ship are sometimes at sea over the question of her certificates. First they must secure the "Builder's Certificate," embodying her measurements for tonnage as made by a board of trade surveyors, notes a writer in The Bits Magazine. Then follows the task of drawing up their "declaration of ownership," an imposing document stating their names, business, and number of shares, which has to be signed before a shipping master or commissioner of oaths, and then handed to the registrar of ships at the vessel's proposed home port. He now writes out with due formality a "Certificate of Registry," giving the ship a number and approving of her name. With so many ships at sea, the name problem is not easily settled, an act of parliament forbidding a new ship to take the name of an existing one. But one vessel registered at Jaffa, a port in Ceylon, successfully avoided duplication. She called herself the Venayagasowpakialetchey.
